Free HPV vaccination may sharply cut India's cervical cancer burden

SOHINI DAS

Mumbai, 25 February

India's decision to roll out a nationwide free HPV vaccination programme for 14-year-old girls could significantly alter the country's cervical cancer trajectory, public-health experts said, as the disease continues to impose a disproportionate burden on Indian women.

India accounts for around 19 per cent of global cervical cancer cases and 23 per cent of deaths, according to estimates from International Agency for Research on Cancer (IARC), based on GLOBOCAN 2022 data. In 2023 alone, 35,691 women died of cervical cancer, according to data from the Indian Council of Medical Research-National Cancer Registry Programme, marking an increase from 34,806 deaths in 2022.

The government's move, announced this week, will deliver the vaccine through designated public health facilities, including Ayushman Arogya Mandirs, district hospitals and government medical colleges, with trained medical staff and post-vaccination monitoring — an approach officials say is critical to maintaining safety and public trust.

Public-health expert Anish TS, professor and nodal officer at the Kerala One Health Centre for Nipah Research and Resilience, said the timing of the intervention aligns well with India's social context.

Awareness around cervical cancer is improving, safer sexual practices are increasing, and a government-led vaccination programme could amplify these gains, he noted. Public confidence in the government cold-chain system remains high, he added.

Experts cautioned, however, that vaccination alone will not be enough. Despite cervical cancer being one of the most preventable, screening coverage in India remains alarmingly low.

A 2025 ScienceDirect epidemiological study found that only about 1.9 per cent of women aged 30-49 years have been screened — a gap that continues to drive late-stage diagnosis and high mortality.

Policy analysts say vaccinating girls at 14 years of age is both pragmatic and effective. Vivek Tandon of Primus Partners pointed out that sexual exposure before this age remains uncommon in India, and immunisation at 14 still offers strong protection when administered prior to HPV exposure, making it a sensible preventive strategy within the recommended age window.

The public rollout also addresses a major affordability barrier. In the private market, HPV vaccines such as Gardasil, manufactured by Merck, typically cost ₹3,000-₹4,000 per dose, with multiple doses required — placing them out of reach for many families.

By contrast, global alliances like Gavi, the Vaccine Alliance, have helped drive down HPV vaccine prices for public programmes in low- and middle-income countries,

Early shield

- Nationwide free HPV vaccination to target 14-year-old girls across India
- India bears nearly one-fifth of global cervical cancer burden
- Govt to deliver vaccines via public health facilities nationwide
- Experts say vaccination must be paired with stronger screening coverage
- Public rollout removes high private-market vaccine cost barrier
- Success hinges on sustained coverage, awareness and programme execution enabling large-scale immunisation through government procurement. Through a partnership with the Gavi vaccine alliance, India will integrate the globally recognised Gardasil vaccine into its national immunisation programme.

Industry leaders have also welcomed the move. Dharminder Nagar, managing director (MD) of Paras Health and co-chair of the FICCI Healthcare Committee, said the programme signals a decisive shift in India's cancer strategy. "Free HPV vaccination for adolescent girls is a decisive step towards preventing cervical cancer at scale. By prioritising early protection, India can sharply reduce future disease burden and save thousands of lives — something that alone can never achieve."

Public-health experts broadly agree that the real impact will depend on execution and follow-through — sustained vaccine coverage, integration with screening programmes, and continued awareness campaigns.

If implemented effectively, the initiative could mark India's most meaningful advance yet towards cervical cancer prevention, rather than late-stage care.

Vaishnav: Smartphone now India's top export category

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, 25 February

Smartphone has become India's top export category with overseas shipments worth $30 billion in 2025, Union Electronics and IT Minister Ashwini Vaishnav said on Wednesday.

The minister shared the development in a social media post. "Becoming the smartphone manufacturing factory for the world," Vaishnav said.

The photo post titled Smartphones India's No 1 export category displayed that there were exports worth $30 billion in January-December 2025. Mobile phones worth ₹5.5 trillion ($60 billion) were produced in the country, and exports from the segment were worth around ₹2 lakh crore (about $22 billion) in 2024-25.

Electronics exports from the country have crossed ₹4 trillion ($44 billion) in 2025 and are expected to grow when four semiconductor plants begin production this year.

India will be touching almost 30 crore units of mobile phone production, and one in four smartphones produced in India are estimated to have been exported in 2025.

Electronics and IT Minister Ashwini Vaishnav said overseas shipments were worth $30 billion in 2025

According to the International Data Corporation's Worldwide Quarterly Mobile Phone Tracker for the third quarter of 2025, Apple clocked its highest-ever supply of 50 lakh iPhones for the domestic market in a quarter.

Apple leads both premium (smartphones priced in the range of ₹53,000-71,000 apiece) and super-premium segment (priced above ₹71,000 apiece), which drove the growth of the country's smartphone market in the September quarter.

APPLE'S SIXTH STORE IN INDIA OPENS TODAY

Apple is set to open its second Mumbai store in Borivali today, nearly three years after the global tech giant made its retail debut in the country. The Borivali store is the sixth retail outlet in India. The company's first India store was BKC (Bandra Kurla Complex) in Mumbai. It has stores in other cities such as Pune, Bengaluru and Noida

NCERT drops 'judicial corruption' chapter after CJI rebuke

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, 25 February

Chief Justice of India (CJI) Surya Kant on Wednesday strongly objected to a chapter on judicial corruption in the National Council of Educational Research and Training's (NCERT's) Class 8 social science curriculum, prompting the syllabus-setting body to withdraw the contentious textbook from its website.

A three-judge bench comprising the CJI and justices Joyalmay Bagchi and Vipul M Pancholi took suo motu cognizance of the "objectionable" statements about the judiciary in the new textbook after senior advocate Kapil Sibal, alongside Abhishek Singhvi, mentioned the matter for urgent consideration.

The NCERT social science textbook for Class 8 says corruption, a massive backlog of cases, and the lack of an adequate number of judges are among the challenges faced by the judicial system.

After stern words by the Supreme Court that it will not allow "anyone on earth" to tarnish the judiciary's integrity, the NCERT pulled the textbook from its website, with sources saying the government was livid with the controversial references in the curriculum.

The NCERT is said to have called an internal meeting to review the recommendations of the subject experts involved in the chapter and the officials who approved it.

The government sources said while the NCERT is an autonomous body, the officials responsible for adding chapters should have applied their minds. If the issue of corruption was to be included in the textbook, it should have been about all three organs (the executive, the legislature and the judiciary), they said.

"We are very disturbed as members of this institution to find that children of Class 8 are being taught about corruption in the judiciary.

It is part of the NCERT book. We have great stake in the institution it (the chapter) is entirely scandalous. We have the copies of the book," Sibal said in court. "I can assure you all that I am fully aware of this," the CJI said, adding that he received various calls and messages and many high court judges were "perturbed". When Sibal said he hoped the bench would take suo motu cognizance, the CJI said, "Wait for a day. This is definitely concerning the entire institution. The bar and the bench are perturbed. Every stakeholder in the system is really perturbed. I am receiving a lot of calls and messages. There are judges of the high courts who are perturbed." The CJI told Sibal he had already passed an order taking suo motu cognizance of the issue.

"I will not allow anyone on earth to taint the integrity of the institution and defame the institution. At any cost, I will not permit it. Howsoever high it may be, the law will take its course. I know how to deal with it," a visibly irked CJI said.

Singhvi raised the issue of the NCERT adopting a selective approach and said it presumed that "there was no corruption elsewhere. There was not a word about corruption in bureaucracy, politics, public life and other institutions". "It seems to be a very calculated and deep-rooted measure to... we don't want to say anything more... I am aware and I have done my duty," the CJI said and thanked the lawyers for raising the issue.
